Your Source for Miessence Certified Organic Products

Erin Ely is an eclectic, gregarious, and outgoing person. She enjoys spending time with friends and family; husband, Doug and two kids Maggie age 14 and Locke age 18. She loves being with people and bringing them together, meeting them, talking with them and making connections. She's an instigator and a community and political activist. For the past 16 years she has been a stay-at-home mom, homeschooler, organic and local food advocate, "professional" volunteer, community and political activist. She's raised over $150,000 for various organizations through direct donations, product sales, grant writing, and event coordination.

In 2005, Erin became an Independent Representative with ONE Group and started a home based business. This has allowed her the flexibility to be available for her kids when they need her and the resources and time to travel when it is convenient. She gets to focus on the things in life that are important to her; family, volunteering in the community and supporting non-profit organizations.

She is very committed to sustainable business, social justice and the environment. Spending much of her time educating herself about these areas through reading books, blogs, and magazines dedicated to these topics. Erin is a strategic optimist, a term she heard coined by Kenny Ausubel of the Bioneers when he introduced Jay Harman of Pax Scientific at the 2007 Bioneers annual conference in San Rafael, Ca.

The only way customers can be assured that they are purchasing Real Organic products produced without the use of synthetic chemicals and GMO's is to purchase products which have been organically certified with a leading independent certifying body

What makes Miessence products so unique?

- Energy of Certified Organic Ingredients
- Revolutionary Bioactive Cold Formulation
- 100% Beneficial Ingredients
- No chemical preservatives- tested and proven all-natural shelf life!
- Unique Emulsification and Preservative Systems

While there are many "organic" products in today's market place, many companies falsely label their products as organic. Ely Organics is passionate about the deceptive labeling of "organic" personal care and cosmetic products. Erin does the research to verify organic product claims that she sees on product labels. Her personal motto is leave no stone unturned.

Testimonials

My husband washes the dishes and was complaining to me that ordinary liquid soap did not clean well enough. It didn't cut the grease as well as he would like. So we tried several brands of natural dishwashing soap. He commented that he liked the ONE Group best. It cleaned as well as the others he liked, but it was "gentler on his hands." This from a mechanic and carpenter!

Debra Lynn Dadd, "Queen of Green"

"This is one of my favorite beauty products in the world. The sweet, subtle scent combined with the consistency and cleaning properties make this a must try."
